Mrs. Obenchain is Placed on Trial for Kennedy Murder

The Associated Press Leased Wire

Los Angeles, Calif., Feb. 6.—The trial of Mrs. Madalyn Obenchain, accused of the killing of J. Belton Kennedy, her former sweetheart, was on the calendar of the superior court here today.

Mrs. Obenchain is charged with having conspired with Arthur C. Burch, with whom she attended college at Evanston, Illinois, to slay Kennedy.

Kennedy was shot in Beverly Glen, near here, on the night of August 5 last, it being alleged Burch did the shooting after Mrs. Obenchain lured Kennedy to the Glen. Burch was placed on trial November 22 and the jury was discharged January 16, after disagreeing, the final ballot being 10 to 2 for conviction.

Rosbrook Has Feed
Jobbing Business

Frank J. Rosbrook of Dixon has opened offices in the Evening Telegraph building and will conduct a feed jobbing business, handling feed and by-products in carload lots under the firm name of F. J. Rosbrook Company.

With his wide acquaintance, honest and efficient way of handling business matters, together with a personality that makes friends, Mr. Rosbrook will undoubtedly build up a substantial and profitable business. For three years he has been connected with the Universal Oats Company of Dixon, in charge of the feed jobbing department.

A cord from the Bacharach state that while visiting in Miami, they met quite a number of Dixon folks, the Lovlands, Charles Whitford, the Ponks and Stanley Baker.

TAYLOR DEATH NOW CHARGED TO JEALOUSY

Former Fiance of Film Star Hunted By Detectives.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Los Angeles, Feb. 6.—The green eyed monster, jealousy, police and private detectives say, has directed search for a prominent young New York man formerly engaged to one of the beautiful stars of Filmdom in connection with the murder last Wednesday night of William Desmond Taylor. This suspect was reported today to have checked out of a hotel here on the day the murder was committed and left the city the following afternoon. He is believed by investigators to have headed for San Diego and possibly crossed the border into Mexico. His name is withheld by the police.

The actress to whom this suspect was at one time engaged, according to investigators, was a close friend of the slain director, and in this friendship, investigators say, they see a possible motive of jealousy which would lead to the murder.

Letters written by Mabel Normand to Taylor which were reported missing following the murder, and evidence concerning presence for six months at least of a woman's silk pink night gown in Taylor's bachelor apartment, today adds interest to the case.

Investigators were reluctant to discuss the night gown and a bit of mystery attaches to it, for Henry Peavey, the negro houseman of Taylor, told of its presence in the house until the night of the murder. Where it is now is a police mystery. They will not discuss it, but reports are that it disappeared with the letters.

TIGERS DEFEAT
STERLING TEAM
IN PRELIMINARY

Repeated Victory 30 to 9 on Sterling Gym Floor.

(By Murphy)

The Tiger basketball team traveled down to Sterling Friday evening and played a preliminary game to the Sterling-Dixon high school contest with the Sterling Sophomores and repeated their victory of a week ago on the Y floor the score this time being 30-9. We didn't see the game, but from reports brought back it was more interesting than the big contest. Stevens again led in the scoring although he only got three field goals. A new name appears in the Tigers lineup, that of White, and we strongly suspect that this dark horse has also played under the Intermediate color.

Dixon

Ramsey, White, Stevens, Cassel, Wendell, Saunders, Stultz, Hoggard, Davis, Woods, Pomroy, Castle, Harding.

Field goals: Stevens 3, Davis 2, Saunders 2, Pomroy 2, Wendell 2, White 2, Ramsey.

Free throws: Davis.

Referee: Reiley.

Boys' Band Sale
Was Fine Success

The baking sale for the benefit of the Boys Y. M. C. A. band held at the Kennedy music store Saturday was a real success and the boys wish to thank all those having a part in it. In connection with the sale seventeen of the boys marched to the store and played a few numbers giving the public some impression as to what a boys' band will be and do for the city. There are just 41 boys in the lineup and Mr. Seamus is planning on a membership of sixty before many months. Any one in the city interested in having a boys' organization of this kind representing Dixon who desires to donate to the support of it can be assured it will be greatly appreciated. Kindly address it to the president, Myron Smith, 103 East Morgan St., or Y. M. C. A.

ACHILLE RATTI, CARDINAL OF MILAN, ITALY CHOSEN POPE BY SACRED COLLEGE THIS MORNING

HIS HOLINESS, POPE PIUS XI

Cardinal Achille Ratti, Archbishop of Milan, who was today elected Pope, was for several years Papal Nuncio in Poland where his discharge of important ecclesiastical functions earned for him the esteem of the Polish people and the gratitude of Vatican authorities. It was because of this service that the red hat was conferred upon him on June 16, 1921, when a similar honor was bestowed on Cardinal Laurenti.

Cardinal Ratti was born at Desio, Italy, on March 31, 1858. For many years he was librarian of the Ambrosian Library and archbishop at Milan. Later he became librarian of the Vatican. In this position he remained until the new republic of Poland established official diplomatic relations with the Vatican, at which time Ratti was appointed archbishop and was assigned to Poland as the representative of the Holy See.

That country was then torn with the estrangements from religion brought about by the Communistic propaganda from Soviet Russia and Archbishop Ratti counteracted the spread of radicalism. He also won the esteem of Polish Catholics by his efforts in behalf of destitute children orphaned by the war.

Cardinal Ratti as the Archbishop of Milan presided over one of the most important archdioceses in Italy. The city being a great industrial center, one of its main requirements is that the Cardinal shall possess a thorough knowledge of political and social problems. He is big physically and is reputed to have liberal tendencies.

McCleary Files His Petition with Clerk

J. M. McCleary of Dixon has filed his petition asking that his name have a place on the township election ballot as a candidate for re-election to the office of Assistant Supervisor of Dixon township.

A largely attended meeting of depositors of the Union State Bank was held yesterday afternoon in the council chambers at the city hall. The room was crowded to its capacity. A temporary executive committee consisting of Harry Stephan, Fred Trough and W. E. Cahill was named. Another meeting will be called, probably to be held the latter part of this week.

Former Dixon Man
Died in Oregon City

John Beahan, who left Dixon about nine years ago to make his home in Forest Grove, Oregon, died at that place, Jan. 30, 1922, after an illness of a week. He had been in failing health, however, for some time prior. He was an aged veteran of the Civil War and will be remembered by the older citizens of Grand Detour, Dixon and Anthon, at which places he formerly resided. He is survived by a wife and daughter.

He was buried at Forest Grove Wednesday, Feb. 1, with the ceremony in charge of the Grand Army post of that place.

Moose Fair Opened
with Fine Business

The annual fair given by Dixon lodge, Loyal Order of Moose, opened Saturday evening at Rosbrook's hall with the drill team in charge. A large crowd enjoyed the evening at dancing and with the other forms of entertainment provided. The fair will be closed this evening, reopening again tomorrow evening and running for the remainder of the week.

TO R. R. CONVENTION.

Harry Chamberlain left Sunday for Omaha to attend a convention of the Brotherhood of Railroad Carmen. He was elected delegate from Lodge 682 of Nelson and Sterling.

ARBUCKLE WITNESS—Alice Blake, one of the show girl witnesses at the second trial of Fatty Arbuckle, proved very unsatisfactory for the prosecution. She had forgotten most of the details of the party at San Francisco hotel that ended in the death of Virginia Rappe.

An Epoch in Human Progress

President Harding Praises Conference and Thanks Delegates in Final Address This Morning.

Washington, Feb. 6.—(By the Associated Press.)—The address made by President Harding at the concluding session today of the arms conference follows:

"Mr. Chairman and members of the conference:

"Nearly three months ago it was my privilege to utter to you sincerest words of welcome to the capital of our republic, to suggest the spirit in which you were invited and to intimate the atmosphere in which you were asked to confer. In a very general way, perhaps, I ventured to express a hope for the thing towards our aspirations led.

"Today it is my greater privilege and even greater pleasure, to come to make acknowledgment. It is one of the supreme compensations of life to contemplate a worth while accomplishment.

"It cannot be other than seemly for me, as the only chief of government so circumstanced as to be able to address the conference, to speak congratulations and to offer the thanks of our nation, our people; perhaps I dare volunteer to utter them for the world. My own gratification is beyond my capacity to express.

Achieved Great Things.

"This conference has wrought a truly great achievement. It is hazardous sometimes to speak in superlatives, and I will be restrained. But I will say, with every confidence, that the faith pledged here today, kept in national honor, will mark the beginning of a new and better epoch in human progress.

"Stripped to the simplest fact, what is the spectacle which has inspired a new hope for the world? Gathered about this table nine great nations of the earth—not all, to be sure, but those most directly concerned with the problems at hand—have met and have conferred on questions of great import, and common concern, an problems menacing their peaceful relationship, on burdens threatening a common peril. In the revealing light of the public opinion of the world, without surrender of sovereignty, without impaired nationality or offended national pride, a solution has been found in unanimity, and today's adjournment is marked by rejoicing in the things accomplished. If the world has hungered for new assurance it may feast at the banquet which the conference has spread.

America is Gratiified.

"I am sure the people of the United States are supremely gratified and yet there is scant appreciation of how nervously you have wrought. When the days were dragging and agreements were delayed, when there were obstacles within and hindrances without, few stopped to realize that here was a conference of sovereign powers where only unanimous agreement could be made the rule. Majorities could not decide without impugning national rights. There were no victors to command, no vanquished to yield. All had voluntarily to agree in translating the conscience of our civilization and give concrete expression to world opinion.

"And you have agreed in spite of all difficulties and the agreements proclaimed to the world. New standards of national honors have been sought, but the indictments of national dishonor have been drawn, and the world is ready to proclaim the odiousness, perfidy or infamy.

"It is not pretended that the pursuit of peace and the limitation of armament are new concepts, or that the conference is a new conception, writing the conscience of international relationship. Indeed, it is not new to have met in the realization of war's supreme penalties. The Hague conventions are examples of the one, the conference of Vienna, of Berlin, of Versailles, are outstanding instances in the other.

"The Hague conference was defeated by one strong whose indisposition to co-operate and sustain led it to one of the supreme tragedies which have come to national eminence. Vienna and Berlin sought peace founded on the injustices of war and sowed the seeds of conflict.

"It is fair to say that human progress, the grown intimacy of international relationship, developed communication and transportation, attended by a directing world opinion, have set the stage more favored here. You have met in that calm deliberation and that determined resolution which have made a just peace, in righteous relationship, its own best guaranty.

No Enmities Aroused.

"It has been the fortune of this conference to sit in a day far enough removed from war's bitterness, yet near enough to war's horrors, to gain the benefit of both the hatred of war and the yearning for peace. Too often, heretofore, the decades following such gatherings have been marked by the difficult undoing of their decisions. But your achievement is supreme because no seed of conflict has been sown; no reaction in regret or resentment ever can justify resort to arms.

"It little matters what we appraise as the outstanding accomplishment. Any one of them alone would have justified the conference, but the whole achievement has so cleared the atmosphere that it will seem like breathing the refreshing air of a new morn of promise.

"You have written the first deliberate and effective expression of great powers in the consciousness of peace, of war's utter futility, and challenged the sanity of competitive for each other's destruction.

Have Lifted Burdens.

"You have halted and lifted burdens and revealed to the world that the one sure way to recover from the sorrow and ruin and staggering obligations of a world war is to end the strife in preparation for more of it, and turn human energies to the constructive of peace.

"Not all the world is yet tranquilized. But here is the example, to knead with new hope all who dwell in apprehension. At this table came understanding, and understanding brands armed conflict as abominable in the eyes of enlightened civilization.

"I once believed in armed preparedness, I advocated it. But I have come now to believe there is better preparedness in a public mind and a world opinion made ready to great justice precisely as it exacts it. And justice is better served in conferences of peace than in conflicts of arms.

"How simple it all has been. When you met here twelve weeks ago there was not a commitment, not an obligation, except that which each delegation owes to the government commissioning it. But human service was calling, world conscience was impelling, and world opinion directing.

"No intrigue, no offensive or defensive alliances, no involvements have wrought your agreements, but reasoning with each other to common understanding has made new relationships among governments and peoples, new securities for peace, and new opportunities for achievement and attending happiness.

Contacts of Reason

"Here have been established the contacts of reason, here has come the inevitable understanding of face-to-face exchanges when passion does not inflame. The very atmosphere shamed national selfishness into retreat. Viewpoints were exchanged, differences composed, and you came to understand how common, after all, are human aspirations; how alike, indeed, and how easily reconcilable, are our national aspirations; how sane and simple and satisfying to seek the relationships of peace and security.

"When you first met I told you of our America's thought, to seek less of armament and none of war; that we sought nothing which is another's and we were unafraid, but that we wished to join you in doing that finer and nobler thing which no nation can do alone. We rejoice in the accomplishment. It may be that the national holiday here contracted will expire with the treaties, but I do not believe it. Those of us who live another decade are more likely to witness a growth of public opinion, strengthened by the new experience, which will make nations more concerned with living to the fulfillment of God's high intent that with agencies of warfare and destruction.

Other Meetings Likely.

"Since this conference of nations has pointed the way to peace, like conferences in the future under appropriate conditions and which aims both well conceived and definite, may illumine the highways and byways of human activity. The torches of understanding have been lighted, and they ought to glow and encircle the globe.

"Again gentlemen of the conference, congratulations and the gratitude of the United States; to Belgium, to the British Empire, to China, to France, to Italy, to Japan, to The Netherlands, and to Portugal—I can wish no more than the same feeling, which we experience, of honorable and honored contribution to happy human advancement, and a new sense of security in the righteous pursuits of peace and all attending good fortune.

Have Heartened World

"From our own delegates I have known from time to time of your activities, and of the spirit of concilia-

ADJOURNS SINE DIE AFTER ALL SIGN TREATIES

Farewell Address is Delivered By Pres.
Harding.

Washington, Feb. 6.—(By the Associated Press.)—The history making conference on the limitation of armaments and far eastern questions came to its end today with the signing of treaties and a farewell address by President Harding.

With its work characterized by Mr. Harding as "the first deliberate and effective expression of great powers, in the consciousness of peace, of war's utter futility," the great conference went to its niche of history to await the judgments and developments of the future.

In the great assembly hall of the Daughters of the American Revolution, where all its open sessions have been held, the delegates of the nine nations assembled marched in turn to a space at the great green balsa table and affixed their signatures to the treaties and agreements which are all parts of the structure built to lift from a war torn world the burden of excessive naval armaments; to promote the peace of the Pacific, to give a new bill of rights to China, and to remove from the far east particularly the clouds of war.

Prolonged Applause.

And as each delegation affixed signatures as plenipotentiaries, pledging the honor of their respective nations to the good faith of the settlements agreed upon, the great audience expressed the hopes of the world in its loud and prolonged applause.

At the conclusion of the ceremony of signing, President Harding delivered his address formally closing the conference as he formally opened it a little more than 12 weeks ago.

The President as he read slowly from his manuscript, frequently was halted by bursts of applause. He finished speaking at 11:10 o'clock and then delegates and spectators bowed their heads as a benediction was pronounced.

President Cheered.

There was long applause when President Harding said:

"While the settlement of the far eastern question was not of direct import to the United States, we rejoice with the world that understanding has been reached."

As the President named the American delegates and thanked them for their services to the nation, there was applause at the mention of each delegate's name. There was more applause when the president thanked the advisory committee for its services.

At the conclusion of the President's address, the party stood and applauded while the executive took away. As the applause had died away, the Rev. Abernathy stepped forward and pronounced the benediction.

"May it be in the heart of every nation and every man," he beseeched, "to hasten the bringing of the era of good will."

The prayer ended, and the secretary announced:

"The conference is adjourned sine die."

Cardinal O'Connell Arrived Too Late

Rome, Feb. 6.—(By the Associated Press.)—Cardinal O'Connell, Archbishop of Boston, arrived in Rome at 12:40 o'clock this afternoon, an hour after the new pope had been elected.

tion and adjustment, and the cheering readiness of all of you to strive for that unanimity so essential to accomplishment. Without it there would have been failure; with it you have heartened the world. And I know our guests will pardon me while I make grateful acknowledgement to the American delegation—to you, Mr. Secretary Hughes; to you, Senator Lodge; to you, Senator Underwood; to you, Mr. Root; to all of you for your able and splendid and highly-purposed and uplifting endeavors in behalf of our government and our people, and to our excellent advisory committee, which gave to you so dependable a reflex of that American public opinion which charts the course of this republic.

"It is so fine, so gratifying, so full of promise, that, above the murmurings of a world sorrow not yet silenced, above the groans which come of excessive burdens not yet lifted, but to be lightened, above the discouragements of a world yet struggling to find itself after surpassing upheaval, there is the note of rejoicing which is not alone ours or yours, or of all us, but comes from the hearts of men of all the world.

48TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY OBSERVED—

Sunday, Feb. 5th, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Rhodes of Palmyra celebrated their 48th wedding anniversary. Their five children and their families gathered at the beautiful home and enjoyed a delicious dinner and a happy social day. The day was also celebrated in honor of the fourteenth birthday anniversary of a grandson, Chester Rhodes. The Rhodes home was attractively decorated with potted plants.

A feature of the occasion was the presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Rhodes of a handsome leather rocker by their present. The gift is highly valued.

Mr. and Mrs. Rhodes have been residents of Palmyra for the past thirty years and have many friends who regret to have them leave to reside in Dixon. They have purchased the former home of Earl Senneff on East McKinney street and will take possession soon. They will live but a few blocks from a married daughter, Mrs. Bert Kested, of North Galena avenue. The farm will be turned over to the youngest son, Harry Rhodes.

Yesterday the beautifully decorated table was graced with two fine cakes, one to honor the 48th wedding anniversary of the host and hostess and one to honor the fourteenth birthday anniversary of Chester Rhodes, their grandson.

All the children were present, including Mrs. G. E. Parks, who has been residing for the past ten years in Hillsboro, North Dakota. Mr. and Mrs. Parks have returned to Dixon to reside.

The celebration Sunday of the anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Rhodes proved a very memorable occasion and one long to be remembered. They are highly esteemed and their many friends all express the desire that they may live to enjoy many such anniversaries.

"TWELVE GOING ON THIRTEEN"

On Wednesday evening the Boy Scouts will enjoy a scramble supper at the home of Owen Meyers, 111 East Boyd street. This day will commemorate the twelfth anniversary of the organization of the Boy Scouts of America. They are "twelve, going on thirteen," just the age a boy has to be to join.

The supper at the Meyers home will be served from 5 to 7 and it is hoped that all the Scouts will see this notice and be on hand.

TWO TIE GAMES IN JUNIOR "B" FIVES' TOURNEY

Hot Times Are Assured Before Contests Are Ended.

STANDING OF THE TEAMS

Fish peddler	2	0	1	1.000

Dizzy Eagles	1	1	1	.500
Blockheads	1	1	1	.500
Galloping Nemos	1	2	0	.333
Alibis	0	2	1	.000

At the end of the third round the teams in the Junior B basket ball tournament show more than ever that they are closely matched. Saturday morning the Fish Peddlers who head the column were played to a standstill by the Alibis who occupy the cellar the score being 1-1. Capt. Brooker and Capt. Kennedy each made the points for their teams.

The second game was almost as close but the Galloping Nemos weren't galloping at their usual rate of speed and so the Shrimp Chasers chased 'em in with a 1-0 score. Joyce made the only point on a free throw.

Then the Dizzy Eagles and the Blockheads played another tie game this time the score being 2-2. Snow and Smith scored a basket apiece for the scores. With two tie games in one morning the B's will sure have a hot time of it before the pennant is decided. The tie offs will probably be played some time the latter part of the week.

DOODLE BUGS IN FIRST VICTORY IN "A" SERIES

Ran Circles All About Ivory Domes Saturday Morning.

STANDING OF THE TEAMS

Krazy Kats	3	2	1.000

Doodle Bugs	1	2	.333
Ivory Domes	0	3	.000

The Doodle Bugs won their first game in the Junior A tournament Saturday morning when they warped the Ivory Domes 8-1. Although the Ivory Domes had one player more than the Bugs it didn't turn out to be so much of a handicap as the Doodle Bugs ran circles around the Ivories. For the Doodle Bugs, Capt. Lough made 2 baskets, Buckingham one and a free throw. For the Ivory Domes, Archer made a free throw.

The Brick Busters met their first defeat at the hands of the Krazy Kats the score being 9-4. And so Nimble Dick's prophecy of a straight string of victories was upset. Although the Brick Busters fought desperately and to the last ditch the Krazy Kats were too much for them and their Waterloo resulted. Johnson lead the scoring with three baskets. Wilson and Forrester each made one while the free throws went to Lowell, Forrester and Forrester.

Referee: S. Lowell and Kerz.

Scorer: Suter.

St. Mary's Beat North Side Team

At 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon the St. Mary's 6th grade basket ball team met and defeated the 7th grade of the North Central School on the Y floor 10-4. St. Mary's led from the start and not once were they even in danger of being tied.

St. Mary's: Hilliker and Ed O'Malley, forwards; Joyce, center; Rink and E. Kinney, guards.

North Central: Lennon and Smith, forwards; Buchner, center; Kennedy and Rogers, guards.

Field goals: Joyce 4; Kennedy 2; E. O'Malley.

CHICAGO WOMAN NOW EATS Anything She Wants and Has Gained Ten Pounds in Weight.

Thought Statements About Tanlac Were Exaggerated Until Her Own Health Was Remarkably Restored.

"I used to think all the statements about Tanlac were exaggerated, but since it restored me to health and strength so wonderfully I am convinced that nothing too good can be said about it," said Mrs. Mary Vaughan, 311 South Seeley Ave., Chicago, Ill.

"Before taking Tanlac I was so weak I hardly had strength to sweep the floor and my nerves were so upset that at night I hardly got a wink of sleep. I had stomach trouble of the worst sort and nothing seemed to agree with me. I was almost in despair so I now appreciate all the more what Tanlac has done for me."

"I can eat anything I want without feeling the slightest distress afterwards, my weight has increased ten pounds and I sleep like a child every night. Tanlac certainly is a grand medicine."

Tanlac is sold in Dixon by Thomas Sullivan and the leading druggists everywhere.—Adv.

The Intermediate basket ball team again won, this time from the Hay Shakers by a score of 48 to 20. During the first half there wasn't much to it as the Intermediates scored at will and rolled in basket after basket. Quite a number of shots from different angles and had an element of luck connected with them. The score at the end of the first session was 35 to 11. The last half was more of a game and during this period the Hay Shakers made the Intermediates stop out, played them off their feet and came within one point of making the score of this half tied. 10-3 was the result of the last half with the Intermediates setting the 10.

THE PRESENT—
Time ever hastes, it won't stand still;
The days are flying fast;
A minute, and the present time is added to the past.

The past is dead, the present lives,
The future stark and grim
Before us lies, with it our fate,
Opaque, obscure and dim.

Depend not on the days to come,
Thou know'st not what they bring,
Thou know'st the present, it is here,
And to the present cling.

Work in the present while ye may,
Tomorrow may come never,
The task that's left undone today
May be undone forever.

THE G. R. C. TO MEET TUESDAY

The G. R. C. of the Grace United Evangelical church will meet at the home of Mrs. Philip Miller, 745 North Crawford avenue Tuesday afternoon and evening of this week to sew, instead of on Friday, as first planned.

DIXON WOMAN'S CLUB MEETING

The members of the Dixon Woman's club held a meeting Saturday afternoon at St. Paul's Lutheran church with Mesdames Meyers, Marks, Herick, Moore and Devanny as hostesses. After the usual business meeting, the club had the pleasure of having Charles Swan give two beautiful solos, "Duna" by McGill and "Grey Days" by Noel Johnson. Miss Mary Hintz played the accompaniment for these two numbers. Miss Frances Edwards gave two pleasing piano numbers, "Improvisation and Melody" by Brown and "On the Lake" by Williams. Miss Dorothy Palmer gave a group of songs which were very much enjoyed.

(a) "The Lass with the Delicate Air," by Arue.
(b) "The Lilac Tree," by Gartlan.
(c) "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms," by Moore.

Miss Lois Keyes accompanied Miss Palmer.

Miss Ralph, instructor in English in the North Side schools, gave a reading of the play, "A Man's World," by Rachel Crother, in which she very ably portrayed the various characters taking part in the play in which the idea of a double standard in life for men and women formed the theme for discussion by the different characters.

and at the close of the reading she responded with that beautiful expression in verse "Make Believe." The club is very much indebted to Miss Ralph and the other friends who assisted in furnishing the program for the afternoon.

During the social hour which followed the program the hostesses served delicious refreshments.

On Friday evening, Feb. 10th, Miss Orleans Newcomer will present the program which was to have been given March 4th. The members will please notice the change in date.

MRS. LULU HAMILTON MARRIES MR. SELZER

The following clipping from the Feb. 1st issue of the Excelsior Springs, Mo., Daily Standard will be of interest to Dixon people, as Mrs. Hamilton was better known here as Lulu Woolver:

"Mrs. Betty Louise Hamilton of Excelsior Springs and Arthur J. Selzer of Kansas City, were married this afternoon in Liberty by Rev. F. V. Loos, Christian minister.
"Mr. and Mrs. Selzer will be at the Elms hotel the remainder of the week, and will leave Saturday for their new home at 2018 Tracy avenue, Kansas City, Mo.

"Mrs. Selzer has lived in Excelsior Springs the past year, coming here from Chicago with her two little daughters, and has made a great many friends in this city. For some time she lived at the Ideal hotel, and later had an apartment at the Massey home on Kansas City avenue. She has been identified with the Episcopal congregation of this city."

LUNCHEON IS POSTPONED

The 6 o'clock luncheon which was to have been given by the Ladies' Division of the Y. M. C. A. has been postponed until one week from tonight at which time the management hopes to have a speaker from one of the near by Y. W. C. A's.

The present board of Directors are busily engaged in completing committees and arranging the year's program which no doubt will prove very interesting. The Ladies' Department of the Y. M. C. A. in this city is to be greatly appreciated for few towns this size get such opportunities. The newly elected Secretary, Miss Hartwell, now has charge and will be at the door to receive any ladies of the city who are not acquainted with the work of this association, escort them through the building and make them familiar with the work of the organization.

MINCED EGGS

Chop up four or five hard boiled eggs. Do not mince them too fine. Put over the fire in a suitable pan a cupful of milk, a table spoon of butter, pepper and salt and some savory chopped small. When it comes to a boil, stir in a table-spoon of flour dissolved in a little cold milk.

When it becomes thick like cream, put in the minced eggs. Stir it gently but thoroughly for a few minutes and serve garnished with sippets of toast.

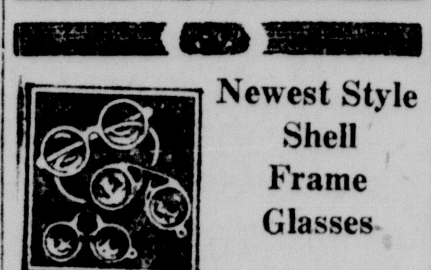

Any flavor may be given to this dish, such as mushrooms, chopped nuts, ham or catsup.

CHICAGO WINS FIRST ROUND

Ten down-staters in the constitutional convention voted with Chicago
last week against restriction of Cook county in both houses of the legislature. Indeed it may be said that it took eleven down-state members to help turn the trick for Cook county.

The vote as first announced stood 51 to 30. Fifty-two votes were required to carry the day for county representation. After declaration of the vote, Delegate Barr of Joliet one of the strongest adherents of restriction, changed his vote to no, in order that he might be in position to move reconsideration, so that the compromise plan might be presented. This plan is the one that is before the convention today.

The ten men who voted directly with the Chicagoans were: Carlstrom
of Alton, Mercer county; Brenholtz
of Madison county; Fyke of Marion, Gale of Knox, Lill of St. Clair, Quinn
of Peoria, Scanlan of LaSalle, Torrance of Livingston, Trautman of St.
Clair, and Woodward (president of the convention) of LaSalle.

The eleventh downstate man who helped make the Chicago victory possible was William H. Chew of Shelby county. He was absent from the convention at the critical time, indicating that his advocacy of the restriction plan could not have been much more than lukewarm. It is explained for him that "he was under the impression" that a vote was not to be reached before the end of the day and that therefore he took a Chicago-bound train. Contrasted with the fact that Col. J. Mack Tanner consented to be taken into the hall on a stretcher, after an ambulance ride from a hospital,
and that Judge William A. Wall of Pulaski county left a St. Louis hospital in time to vote with the down-staters, the action of Chew more strongly points to disinterestedness.
There appears to have been twenty-
two absentees who could have worked wonders for restriction.

Correspondent Phillips of the Chicago Tribune emphasizes the Chicago victory practically as a victory for the wets, pointing out that the re-strictionists were "backed by the Anti-Saloon league."

President Woodward of the convention, who left the chair temporarily to deliver a speech in favor of Cook county, is reported as having said
that restriction had no sound basis fundamentally, that success for the restrictionists meant only the actual opening of an irreconcilable conflict between Chicago and the downstate,
legislative, politically, and economically, and that adoption of the pending proposal meant the certain defeat
at the polls on the issue of ratification of any constitution that might be offered by the convention.

The statement of Woodward that there is no sound basis fundamentally for restriction of Cook county may be said to have been gratuitous. The principle of representation by political units instead of on the basis of population is recognized by the United States constitution, which provides for two senators from a state irrespective of population. It is recognized in the constitutions of the states of New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Georgia, which limit the representation of their big cities in both houses, and do it on the principle of recognition of political units,
instead of solely on the basis of population. It is non-restriction that is a departure, not restriction.

The substitute proposition, which is understood to be before the convention today, provides for fifty-seven senatorial districts, nineteen of which would be located in Cook county.
Membership in the lower house would be apportioned to districts on the basis of voting population.

Under this plan Cook county would always be limited to one-third in the senate and would not have a majority of the house membership until its voting population increased to the point where the Cook county districts

would be entitled to more members
by virtue of the apportionment plan.
This might be as early as after the reapportionment in 1940. It would certainly not be later than that of 1950, with the relative growth of population continuing as now in both Cook county and the remainder of the state.

As a matter of fact there is not a great deal of choice between the plan
that Cook county wants and the so-called substitute plan. Indeed there is ground for suspecting that the substitute proposition looks very good to Chicago, even if it did not emanate from that city. Under either plan it is only a question of time when Chicago would hold the reins over the whole state.

The moment that Chicago gains
control of the house of representatives through increase of voting population, it will have, as clearly pointed out by the County Representation
league:

The governor, with the power to veto, a power equal to one vote less than two-thirds of the votes of both
the senate and the house;

The governor with his power of official patronage and the influence of his army of appointees to the various executive boards executing the functions of all the departments, the state militia and state institutions, and the influence which is very great in controlling legislation;

The lieutenant governor as president of the state.
The secretary of state, auditor, attorney general, treasurer and superintendent of schools, with all their vast powers through patronage and otherwise;

The compact body of a large number of members representing one political unit with a unity of interest, prompting a unity of action, resulting
in a unity of strength;
Its great economic, financial and public press powers by which it can
and will influence to a large degree
the political action of the state in all its branches.

The speaker with his great power,
of the limitation is only in the senate.

The power to elect both the United States senators; and with a control
of both houses, the power to elect all of the congressmen at large, as the election by districts is merely a matter of statutory provision, and thereby extend its great arm of power into every community, through the political influence and patronage of federal government.

The 101 counties would have:
A majority of a few members in one house, with no county with over two or three members, scattered over
a large area of territory with diversified interests, with no unity of community interests, and in no way forming a class or group, without a press covering the state, and with only local financial and economic influences, and with no state or federal political patronage.

County representation was practically the only proposition that would have been permanently satisfactory to the state outside of Cook county. Nevertheless it becomes a question as to what is to be done with the new constitution when submitted to the people with either of these two propositions.

Chicago may be said to have us
"between the devil and the deep sea."
If we vote down the new constitution
when presented, then the old one will remain in force, with Chicago on the way to have a majority in both branches of the legislature, instead of
in only one.

This being the case, down-state
will probably decide to vote for ratification of the new. Then wait till the imminence of complete Chicago control becomes plain to everyone, and the impending evils begin to be more fully understood and acknowledged,
and set the wheels in motion for a new constitutional convention. Even then, Chicago will have the advantage of more voting strength in the new convention, and only a greatly predominating public sentiment
would make for restriction.
The present convention is well on the way to making a mess of it.

THE FARMER'S PURPOSE

One of the interesting developments
of the farmer conference at Washington has been the discovery, surprising to some persons, that farming
is a business much like anything else.
The men at the conference began the surprise by failing to look like farmers, certainly unlike the farmer of the comic section. According to one report, "These are gentlemen with cost sheets at their fingers' ends."

Then, when it came to their problems, these two turned out to be not so different from those of other businesses. The farmer today has more capital tied up than ever before; he has more land under cultivation,
while land values have soared too high; he has more unsold grain in his granary, and unemployment and unbalance exchanges have closed a lot of his markets. In other words, his work harder to make sales.

Tariff and freight rates and wages
all interest farmers. They are no

BRINGING UP FATHER

nearer an ideal solution of their problems than any one else, but they are out to find a solution with the rest of the country. In short they are demonstrating the fact that they are an essential part in the general national scheme of things and therefore have a right to consideration and a voice in important national decisions.

VITAL DECISION

Divorce lawyers in Sweden check
up and discover that the third year in the "crisis" in married life. That's when mates are most likely to agree to disagree.

Sir George Lewis, England's fashionable divorce lawyer, says the danger period is between the seventh and tenth years.

Both of them are wrong. The real danger period in married life is before the knot is tied—when he or she picks the wrong mate.

Men and women are called on to make many important decisions in life, but none as vital as whom to marry. Many in love's gamble, back the wrong card. One out of nine American wedding ends in divorce.

FIRE-EATERS

William S. Kenyon will retire from the Senate to become a United States circuit judge. In effect, this means he will retire from the spotlight.

Conservatives, who looked on Kenyon as a radical, will breathe a sigh
of relief when he leaves the senate.
If he runs true to precedent, watch him become a conservative. Nearly all so-called radicals become conservative when the get on the bench
or in executive office.

The fires in the emotional furnace
of a radical can be extinguished more quickly by giving him a high, responsible job than by sending him to jail.

HIGHER FARES LOWER TRAVEL

Floyd W. Parsons in World's Work for February clearly shows that increased fares and rates are not a solution of the transportation problem.
During the first six months of 1921
under the higher passenger fare
nearly 74,000,000 fewer people traveled on our railroads than were carried by the roads during the same period.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

On day Nick ate a green apple and it made him sick. So after that he and Nancy were not allowed to go near their favorite apple-tree. That was very hard to bear and more of a punishment than their mother knew, for without the magical elevator they couldn't see their fairy friend Buskins,
nor could they make any more visits to the strange country of Up-in-the-Air.

The blossoms in the orchard had disappeared, so the Twins could no longer play that it was a fairy bower. It was more fun down in the meadow under the beloved chestnut-tree, the place where all their adventures began. The first daisies were out, the weather being very warm, and Nancy started to pick a bouquet for the dinner table. Nick wasn't helping much,
thinking it more fun to poke for bugs
and beetles in the grass.

Suddenly a voice called out, "Hello,
there!"

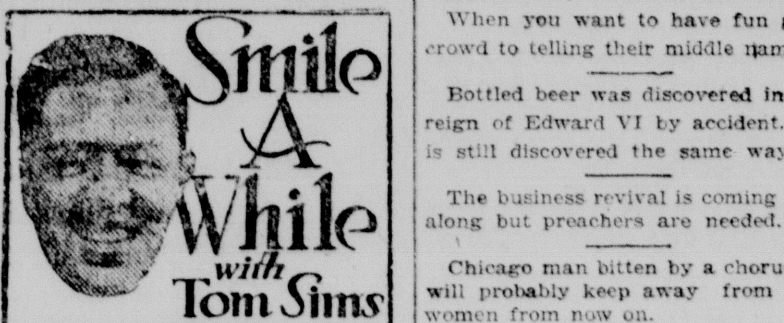

"Hello!" answered the Twins together.

Berton Braley's Daily Poem
Song for a Young Father

This two-and-two stuff is delightful
enough.
As lovers will all quite agree;
I thought it was fine when I first made
you mine.
To trot through life's paces with me,
But though it's still true a good number
is two,
A still better number is three!

Three, three! Count us and see.
The wife and the baby and me;
Though two many be company, three
is no crowd.
When one is a baby of whom we are proud;
A neat little, sweet little familye,
Wife, baby and me!

Geese will be geese. They have started north for the summer.

New York is probably opening smoking rooms for women because there isn't any room for them at home.

"I miss my husband," wails a prominent divorcee. A little practice would improve her aim.

Mexico is discussing a prohibition
law, but not as much as we are.

The only difference between stumbling blocks and stepping stones is in the way you use them.

New brooms sweep clean; but new dresses don't sweep at all.

says the Salvation Army commander.
They do steal a good look.

WATCH EYE DISORDERS TO AVOID TRACHOMA

In reading of famine conditions in the Near East and in Russia, we also read of trachoma, dread eye disease.
Trachoma is a contagious disease of the eyelids. The watery discharge is capable of producing the disease in the eyes of those who are well.
Trachoma is similar to and in fact
may be just what we formerly called granular eyelids.
Trachoma presents a problem more largely economic than perhaps any other in the whole field of preventive medicine. No one dies of the disease.
Half of those who have it are eventually made blind.
The economic usefulness of every one who has it is greatly decreased.
It is slowly but surely contagious,
spreading gradually through families,
schools, institutions or whole communities.
The disease is essentially chronic any may last a lifetime. It puts many otherwise able-bodied people on charity or in county institutions.
Some doctors think that the disease is not due to one bacillus along but that any one of a number of bacilli
may cause it and that a neglected case
of sore eyes may start it.
If they are right, then the way to prevent trachoma is to keep the eyes
free from minor "matters," "pink eye," "sore eyes" and so forth. It would be well, too, to beware of those who have something wrong with their eyes. It might be trachoma.

LEARN A WORD
EVERY DAY

Today's word is CATAFALQUE.
It's pronounced — kat-a-falk — with accent on the first syllable.

It means—a bier, a structure on which a corpse rests.

It comes from Italian "catafalco,"
scaffold.
It's used like this—"Pope Benedict's body lay in state on a magnificent catafalque."

When women pass on the street
they think one good turn deserves
another.

"Petitcoat coming back," says an optimistic pessimist. If it does, about two feet of it will show.

A THOUGHT
FOR TODAY

Let the words of my mouth, and the meditation of my heart, be acceptable
in thy sight, O Lord, my strength and my redeemer.—Psalm 19:14.

God sends great angels in our sore
dismay.
But little ones run in and out all
day.
—Frederick Langbridge.

"Every Kentuckian must bathe once a year," reads a proposed law. And everybody will ask, "Whether they need it or not?"

Nothing makes a girl laugh like dimples and good teeth.

It would be great if some people
talked as well as they do loud.

This Is
The Loss
To You

Don't Be Deceived
By Size

Many housewives are now buying baking powder
under false impressions—
they think they are getting 16 oz. or a full pound when they are really only getting 12 oz.—3/4 of a pound.

In order to keep the price down to compete with other brands, some manufacturers have reduced the contents of their large cans.
If you don't look at the label
—don't know exactly what you are getting when you buy these brands, you are apt to be 4 oz. or 1/4 of a pound short.

To get 16 oz.—a full pound,
when you want it, buy Calumet.
It costs less—you use less. It is made in the world's largest Baking Powder factories.

Keep Calumet in mind—it is the money saving kind.

CHAPTER XVI.

Tom Sanders, working on afternoon tower at Jackpot Number Three, the lean, tanned driller in charge of operations was wise with an uncanny knowledge the newcomer could not fathom. For eight hours at a stretch he stood on the platform and watched a greasy cable go slipping into the earth.

"This spelt romance to Jed Burns, superintendent of operations, though he would never have admitted it.

He was sitting sand through his fingers when Dave came. To Bob Hart, present as Crawford's personal representative, he expressed opinion.

"Right now or never. Sand tastes, feels, looks, and smells like oil. But you can't ever be sure. An oil prospect is like a woman. She will or she won't, you never can tell which. Then, if she does, she's liable to change her mind."

Dave sniffed the pleasing, pungent odor of the crude oil sands. His friend had told him that Crawford's fate hung in the balance. Unless oil flowed very soon in paying quantities he was a ruined man.

After his shift was over, he rode to town with Bib.

"Got to look for an engineer for the night tower," Hart explained as he drew up in front of the Gusher saloon.

The place hummed with the turbulent life that drifts to every wild frontier on the boom. Faro dealers from the Klondike, poker dealers from Nome, roulette croupiers from Leadville, were all here to reap the rich harvest to be made from investors, held workers, and operators.

Bob found his man at a faro table. While the cards were being shuffled he engaged him to come out next evening to the Jackpot properties.

While Dave was standing close to the wall he caught sight of Steve Russell.

"The cowpuncher looked up and waved his hand.

Bob joined them. After a moment's conversation Russell drew them to a corner.

"Say, you heard the news, Bob?" "I can tell you that better after I know what it is," returned Hart with a grin.

"The stage was held up at Cottonwood Bend this morning and robbed of $17,000. The driver was killed."

"Whose money was it?" "Brad Steelman's pay roll and a shipment of gold for the bank."

"Any idea who did it?" "That's what I want to tell you. Two men were in the job. They're whispering that Em Crawford was one."

"Crawford! Some of Steelman's fine work in that ruckus, I'll bet. That's plumb foolish talk. What evidence does he claim?" demanded Hart.

"Em deposited ten thousand with the First National to pay off a note he owed the bank. Rode into town right straight to the bank two hours after the stage got in. Then, too, seems one of the hold-ups called the other one Crawford."

"A plant," said Dave promptly. "They claim the second man was Dave here."

"Hemp! What time d' you say this hold-up took place?" "Must 'a' been about eleven."

"Let's Dave out. He was fifteen miles away, and we can prove it by at least six witnesses."

"Good. I reckon Em can put in an alibi, too."

"I'll bet he can," Hart promised this with conviction.

"Where is Crawford now?" asked Dave. "He hasn't been arrested, has he?"

"Not yet. But he's been watched."

"We'd better go to his house and talk with him," suggested Hart.

"Maybe he can give as good an alibi as you, Dave."

"You and I will go straight there," decided Sanders.

..... Joyce opened the door to the knock of the young men. At sight of them her face lit.

"Oh, I'm so glad you've come!" she cried, tears in her voice. She caught her hands together in a convulsive little gesture.

Her father was sitting in a big chair one leg thrown carelessly over the arm. He was smoking a cigar composedly.

"Come in, boys," he called. "Reckon you've heard that I'm a stage rustler and a murderer."

"Just now," said Bob. "They didn't arrest you?"

"Not yet. Sit down, and I'll tell it to you."

He had gone out to see a home-steader about doing some work for him. On the way he had met Johnson and Purdy, near the Bend, just before he had turned up a draw leading to the place in the hills owned by the man whom he wanted to see.

Two hours had been spent riding to the little valley where the nester had built his corrals and his log house, and when Crawford arrived neither he nor his wife was at home. He returned to the road, without having met a soul since he had left it, and from there jogged on back to town. On the way he had fired twice at a rattlesnake.

"You never reached the Bend, then, at all," said Dave.

"No, but I can't prove I didn't." The old cattleman looked at the end of his cigar thoughtfully. "Nor I can't prove I went out to Dick Grein's place in that three-four hours not accounted for."

"Anyhow, you can show where you got the ten thousand dollars you paid the bank," said Bob hopefully.

A moment of silence; then Crawford spoke. "No, son, I can't tell that either."

aglow. "Yore job, Bob. Spread the news. Rustle up everybody you can get. Arrange with the railroad grade contractor to let us have all his men, teams, and scrapers till we get her hogtied and harnessed. Big wages and we'll feed the whole outfit free. Hire anybody you can find. Buy a couple hundred shovels and send 'em out to Number Three. Get Robinson to move his tent-restaurant out there."

Hart nodded. "What about this job at the Bend?" he asked in a low voice.

"Dave and I'll attend to that. You hump on the Jackpot job. Sons, we're rich, all three of us. Point is to keep from losin' that crude on the prairie."

CHATS WITH YOUR GAS MAN.

The upper oven in your gas range is for baking and roasting; the lower oven is for broiling. The same burners heat both ovens—you can bake and broil at the same time with the same consumption of gas.

After use, the oven doors should be left partly open to permit free circulation of air while the oven is cooling. This will prevent your oven from rusting. A little oil (or grease) in which there is no salt applied with a brush or piece of soft cloth, will also prevent rust.

You can greatly prolong the usefulness of your gas range by keeping all parts clean of dust and grease and by going over them with a cloth and stove oil.

You need not remove the oven burners to clean them. You can go over them occasionally with a stiff brush. And if the holes to the air mixer or oven burners become clogged with dust or grease, clean them with a piece of wire.

Paul Fry returned to school Monday. Glad to see your beaming physiognomy among us again, Paul.

James Fanning visited a tonsorial artist this week and had a growth removed from the top of his head.

It is said that the Board of Education has resolved to erect a building to accommodate five hundred students three stories high.

The rain still poured and Letoy Keenan started off to feed the cows with an umbrella.

Heard from the candy makers of the Cinean Literary Society candy sale—"We took the shells off the walnuts and stirred them into the candy."

Many of the high school lassies have transferred their affections from Rudolph Valentino to Wallace Reid, since the showing of his latest picture here. It is rumored that this is also true of teachers.

A COMEDY IN THREE ACTS

ACT I—Harold Jones talking and laughing to several girls after school, in the hall.

ACT II—Coach Bowers walks up, picks up Jones, turns him around, sets him back on the floor, and says, "Get down and dress for practice."

ACT III—Coach Bowers talking with the several girls in the hall.

Dixon high school's cartoonist Clifford Gilman, who studies expression, features, beauty, etc., as all artists and cartoonists must do, remarked seriously that he was not "kidding" when he said that the high school girls of Dixon are exceedingly more beautiful than those of any place in which he has heretofore lived.

Harold Tuttle was seen serenading Lucille Trautman with the purr of his motor car near her home one moonlit evening this week. How da ya like the front seat of the Chevrolet Lucy?

Miss Doris Lane of Chicago is visiting at the home of Alzina Ayres.

It has been rumored that Winifred Jones' thoughts are continually concentrated on Elgin. Any information desired can be obtained from Helen Cahill. His name is Bob. We know that much.

Levare Shepard was seen lately presiding over the empty seats of the street car on its regular trip from the metropolis to Dementtown.

Hazel Boyer, Alzina Ayres and her friend, all attended the Sterling-Dixon basketball game last evening.

Clifford Gumm has expressed himself as one who likes publicity so we felt that we could not leave the name out of such an amiable and adorable boy out of this column. "How much are eggs today, Clifford?"

There was a hot time in the old home town Wednesday but it was not at night. It was in Home Economics III. The usual odor predominated when various samples of cloth were burning. Hazel Boyer called it a delicious odor.

We just learned that dancing isn't allowed in Dixon high school during business hours. Several members of the student body, including the Never Conscious League would like to know just how long business hours last.

Blanche Birdsong had the misfortune to let a piano bench fall on one of her feet; the result is, she is wearing mis-matched shoes for the present.

I wish to thank the members of the Junior class who so kindly remembered me during my illness. (s) Harriet Jacobs.

WHY TEACHERS GO MAD

Dennis Hintz endeavored to prove to a geometry class the other day that he could draw a circle without a radius. Consequently he drew one, in the usual way, with a string. "The radius isn't there, is it?" he said.

As most people know, shorthand is written by sound, therefore when a student was asked to spell "strike" it was spelled, s-t-r-i-k-e.

Suter informed the Business English class that sequence of tenses means, "one verb right after the other."

"A circle is a clothe line."

JOKES

When a Sophomore girl was returned to her seat from the pencil sharpener for the fourth time during one period, a Junior remarked: "My, I wish I had pretty feet."

One night Leo took his friend Ed for a ride on his new motorcycle. Ed awoke in a hospital. "Where is Leo?" he asked. "Dead," was the answer. "Serves him right; we were going along at a nice rate when he said: 'See them two headlights coming? Watch me run between 'em.'"

Charles Rosenthal to Herbert Kneiss who just returned to school after several days absence: "Glad to see your back."

P.S. We're saving most of our jokes for the Annual. Therefore this department is short.

Look what's been revived:

Dear Editor: It is with pleasure that I comply with your requests and write again to the students of Dixon high school. As you know, I am always intensely interested in the doings of D. H. S. and spend a great deal of my time there. The students have always treated me with so much kindness and consideration that I feel a part of their school life.

One of the things that I find most interesting is to watch the new cases that have developed this year. (Given the faculty are not immune.) One of the most recent is that of Speed and Byron. I am wondering who will be the next one to be bewitched.

As I was walking through the hall the other day I heard Frances O'Malley lamenting the fact that she had heard from her Sterling friend this week. And I noticed that Helen was a sympathetic listener. At the time I tho't this might be mere friendliness but since I have learned there may be other reasons for her interest and sympathy.

Whenever I can, I listen to faculty conversations but I confess I cannot always understand them. Perhaps you can help me solve this. Four teachers were coming up the stairs and this scrap of their talk floated to me: "Do you really suppose that Junior girl forgot to buy an electric light bulb Saturday just because she had a date that night?"

Another thing that puzzles me greatly is why Miss White insists that some one give her a cook book soon. I tho't she taught mathematics. Can you explain the mystery? Perhaps, however, the Bat was mistaken.

The other day I was so surprised to hear a sweet little sophomore girl say: "Oh, I wouldn't go with anyone but one boy. He is a member of my own class, and he lives only a short distance from school." Who could she have been, Donald?

Usually when I come to school I go to a corner and become an interested spectator. But the other day there were Ruth and Pete in one corner, Margaret and John in another, and Edith and Byron in a third; so I was forced to perch on the radiator. But I felt more secure there than I should if I had leaned against the banister. The posts of the stairway have been used so often that I fear for their durability, and sometimes think it unwise for teachers to use their support when watching the lines pass. However, one heavyweight has been lifted from these posts since Edwin dropped school and Gail no longer frequents the halls during the noon hour.

No doubt you, too, have noticed

Heien's radiant face since Paul has returned. And were you surprised that Carolyn could so easily transfer her affections from Raymond to Joe?

Dixon always seemed to me to be a quiet, safe place but from appearances some little people don't find it so. But there is no occasion for worry because Miss May has a good protector each noon.

I could write you indefinitely, but I realize that I, as well as the pupils, should keep early hours. Besides, my pipe has burned out.

Cordially yours,

Seven City Officials of Chicago Indicted

Chicago, Feb. 4.—Indictments against seven officials and former officials of Chicago charging violation of the civil service law through sale of subscriptions to a political newspaper back by the city administration and tickets to a picnic given by the political faction headed by Mayor Wm. Hale Thompson were returned today by a special county grand jury.

Evidence submitted to the jury was intended to show that city employees virtually had been forced to subscribe to the paper and buy picnic tickets under threat of losing their jobs. One of the men indicted was said to have sold $5,000 worth of subscriptions by himself.

A Mix Picture Unprecedented in Daring, Superb in Its Scenic Effects

William Fox presents
TOM MIX in SKY-HIGH
A thrilling story of the Grand Canyon of Arizona

Of all the stirring photoplays made by Tom Mix, none has equalled "Sky High" in the degree of daring exhibited by the star, and none has equalled this production in the grandeur of its natural scenic effects. On the one hand it is truly breath-taking, on the other it is awe-inspiring. It is not a "cowboy" picture, yet its scenes are laid in the wildest and grandest section of the West. The most beautiful picture Mix ever made.

The Grand Canyon of Arizona, in which the action takes place, is one of the natural wonders of the world.

This is the first time an airplane is photographed in flight through the perilous canyon. See Mix drop from the airplane in flight, falling into the Colorado river far below. See him descend a precipice in the Canyon by a rope, with death lurking far beneath in the event of error.

The interest in "Sky-High" never lags for a moment.

Riding a horse on the rim of the Grand Canyon and flying a plane through its air pockets—that's Tom Mix.

If you can keep seated while this picture is running, it's because you're either glued, tied, paralyzed or blind.
